To Whom it May Concern

has volunteered to join a volunteer program with Reach Out Volunteers. Our projects are selected and designed on the basis of their ability to provide on-going and sustainable facilities to communities living in abject poverty.

The projects are small scale and are built in conjunction with local communities. Volunteers are involved in a variety of activities that include building crèches, installing clean water and sanitation facilities for village communities. Some are involved in building classrooms or renovating schools and classrooms in poverty stricken regions. Other activities include supporting sustainable fishing and farming practices and conserving endangered wildlife such as the African rhino and the Asian elephant.

All equipment and materials are supplied by Reach Out Volunteers. No government assistance is received. Volunteers fund their own travel and are not paid for their work. Their program fee helps pay for the materials that provide the infrastructure improvements in the host communities, their food and accommodation and food for the communities our volunteers work in.

Our volunteers gain an experience that is both uplifting and fulfilling. It adds enormously to their experience of working in teams of people from all parts of the globe for the betterment of those less fortunate.

Your contribution would greatly assist our volunteers in their efforts to change the world one village at a time.

Yours Sincerely

Tom Jowett
Director
